13 Ohioans Lose Lives In Holiday Mishaps So Far

Turnpike Collision Accounts For 5 Dead; 6 People Drowned

Ideal holiday weather attracted thousands of Ohioans to the highways and rivers and lakes.

Before the long July 4 holiday was half over, at least 13 persons had lost their lives by accidents in Ohio.

The Associated Press tabulation that began at 6 p. m., EST, Thursday, and which ends at midnight Sunday includes six traffic deaths, six drownings, and one miscellaneous death.

In Salem only three minor traffic mishaps were reported despite the deluge of autos that passed through the city. The banning of parking on State St. facilitated the flow of pleasure-bound motorists to a great extent.

On district highways, three minor accidents were reported by the State Highway Patrol since noon Friday. Three persons were arrested as a result of the mishaps. The patrol reported no injuries.

The most tragic accident involving Ohioans happened in Pennsylvania, and the five victims are not included in the Ohio tabulation.

Killed in a two-car crash on the Pennsylvania turnpike near Donegal Friday were Mr. and Mrs. Vester Sweeney and their son, James, 18, of Cincinnati; James Heed, 23, of Parma, and John S. Kolodny of Route 2, Olmsted Falls.

The deaths by days:

Friday Accidents

Joseph Johnston, 33, drowned while wading in Alum Creek near Columbus.

Mary Lou Chambers, 17, Rt. 1, Powell, killed when automobile in which she was riding failed to make a curve near Columbus.

Dan Martin, 44, and Lela Drake, 45, both of Newark, drowned when car plunged into shallow creek.

Bennie Mason, 18, Akron, killed near Youngstown when car in which he was riding was forced off the road.

John Wimpee, 54, Nettleton, Ark. killed when car upset near Xenia.

Ralph Morehart, 6, Circleville, killed when racing car smashed into fence at Pickaway County Fairgrounds.

Thomas Gregory, 34, Cleveland, died after two-car collision in Cleveland.

Thursday Accidents

Gene Dunberger, 17, Gibsonburg, died after three-car collision near Fremont.

Sharon Byers, 3, Cleveland, killed by car her father was backing out of garage.

Burl D. Whitaker, 11, McDer-mott, drowned in Scioto County Creek near his Scioto County home.

Claire R. Lee, 62, and wife, Rose, Cleveland, drowned in Lake Erie after motorboat capsized.

Third Blast Victim Dies In Hospital

Mrs. Wanda Straley, 26, of East Palestine, died at 8:30 this morning in Salem City Hospital—third victim of the boiler explosion last Tuesday at the plant of the North-east Ohio Poultry Association in Columbiana.

Fatally injured earlier were Mrs. Phyllis Howell, 20, of East Lewis-ton, and Miss Anna Mankin, 19, of East Palestine.

Mrs. Straley, a Belgian war bride of Eugene Straley, State Line Rd., also is survived by two children.

She and the other two victims were reported to have been sitting on a bench near the boiler at the time a clogged safety valve caused the explosion.

Improvement is noted in the other blast victims today at City Hospital.

Ida Knopp, 35, of RD 5, Salem, one of those critically hurt, was fairly good today. The only person remaining in "just fair" condition is Doris Arkwright, 16, of North Lima.

Congress Speeds Passage Of Bills

Okays New GI Bill In Rush To Adjourn

WASHINGTON (AP)—Another feverish day of legislating lay ahead of Congress today before it shuts up shop on the eve of the Republican National Convention.

Before adjournment, tonight or earlier, the lawmakers still had to jam through appropriations totaling almost 60 billion dollars. Agreement also had to be reached on measures boosting social security payments, bolstering farm-price supports and authorizing far-flung military construction projects.

Administration leaders planned for a sine die adjournment, meaning that the law-making days of the 82nd Congress would be over unless President Truman should call it back in special session.

Adjournment Debates

Some Republican senators, and a few Democrats, favored recessing until a fixed date, or at least giving congressional leaders authority to call another session.

Sen. Bridges of New Hampshire, the Republican floor leader, told a reporter that GOP members were divided among themselves on the issue and had not decided whether to fight a sine die adjournment.

One viewpoint was summed up

Congressmen Okay Part Untaxed Salary

WASHINGTON (AP)—All members of Congress would be allowed to exempt the first $3,000 of their Washington living expenses from income taxes under an agreement reached by Senate-House conferees.

The agreement, reached last night, is part of the 76 million dollar legislative budget bill and must be approved by both chambers.

It was a compromise between a House bill which would have exempted all of a member's Washington living expenses from income tax and a Senate Appropriations Committee bill which would have limited the amount to the first $2,400 of living costs in Washington. The Senate voted 67 to 2 against its own committee bill.

The exemption, effective next Jan. 1, would more than cancel out the imposition of taxes on a $2,500 expenses allowance which hitherto had been tax-free. Senators and representatives receive a $12,500 annual salary plus the $2,500 expense fund.

Swimming Pool Cost Estimated $75,000

A goal of between $70,000 and $75,000 is expected to be set next week by the Kiwanis Club in its drive to have a swimming pool built at Centennial Park.

Exact figures will be determined after Kiwanis Club chairman confer with representatives of a company which constructs swimming pools.

Arrangements are to be made soon whereby contributions to the swimming pool fund can be turned over to members of the Kiwanis Club committee headed by Gail Herron or left at local banks.

Complete arrangements are expected to be worked out within the next week.

Taft, Ike Arrive In Chicago As Battle Sharpens

GOP Votes To Give Senator 22 General 16 Texas Delegates

CHICAGO (AP)—Sen. Robert A. Taft's Texas-borne surge toward the Republican presidential nomination faced a blistering challenge today from supporters of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

The two major contenders, arriving here during the day, were ready to take over personal direction of a round-by-round battle in next week's convention for the 604 votes needed to give one of them the party's nomination.

Taft's chief lieutenants told a reporter they expect him to decide whether he will shoot the political works on an attempt to win a first ballot nomination.

J. Russell Sprague, New York national committeeman and an Eisenhower backer, predicted in an interview the general will win by a 50-vote margin a convention rules test on the question of barring disputed delegates from voting on the seating of contested groups.

Taft Needs Only 74 Votes

For Taft, any such result would represent the first major setback in a week of pre-convention activities which has seen him backed by Gen. Douglas MacArthur and supported indirectly by former President Herbert Hoover—sweep to within 74 votes of the needed nomination total in The Associated Press tabulation.

This scorecard includes contested delegates awarded to Taft by the Republican National Committee. Since the committee's decisions are being appealed, only the events of next week can determine just how high Taft's total will be.

As of now, the count showed: Taft 530, Eisenhower 427, other candidates 131, still uncommitted 118.

Taft Hikes Lead

The Ohioan increased his lead yesterday when the Republican National Committee voted 60 to 41 to accept the senator's personally devised compromise of the explosive dispute over 38 Texas delegates.

Despite repeated cries by Eisenhower's supporters that a "steal" had been engineered in the Lone Star State, the committee voted to give Taft 2 of the delegates and assign 16 of them to Eisenhower.

This was exactly what Taft had proposed earlier in the day and what Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts, national campaign manager for Eisenhower, had rejected as a "compromise with fraud."

Ike Backers to Fight

Lodge, Sprague and other Eisenhower leaders made it clear quickly that they had only begun to fight. They said they will carry their high voltage protests to the

U.S. Records 276 Deaths Over Holiday

By The Associated Press

The toll of violent deaths during the July 4th holiday week edged toward 300 today, bringing only one glimmer of encouragement—the nation appeared to be winning its campaign against careless use of fireworks.

Only two deaths—in a total of 276—were caused by fireworks. Traffic accidents accounted for 168 fatalities, while drownings took 81 lives and 25 persons died in miscellaneous accidents during the first 37 hours of the three-day week end.

The low fireworks toll was a simple reminder of the effectiveness of campaigns to eliminate this holiday hazard through education and regulation.

The traffic toll, however, was running ahead of the comparable Memorial Day week end of 1952—when 363 persons died in auto mishaps. It was almost keeping pace with the National Safety Council's forecast of 430 traffic deaths during the week-end period—from 6 p. m. Thursday to midnight Sunday (local time).

NBOP To Create Ninth, Tenth Vice Presidents

EAST LIVERPOOL—The 30,000 member National Brotherhood of Operative Potters prepared today to order a referendum on ratification of its Chicago convention's adoption of a resolution creating ninth and 10th vice-presidents from the area east of the Allegheny Mountains and from the Pacific coast district, respectively.

The union is headed by James M. Duff of this city.

THEY'LL HEAR THAT GAVEL—Walter Fuss is making sure that delegates to the Republican National Convention in Chicago will hear the chairman's gavel over all the fuss and furor on the floor. He's installing the 10-foot oak sounding post which will touch the floor of the convention hall and carry those rappings for order to all present.

WALTER HALLAHAN, Republican national committeeman from Charleston, W. Va., will be temporary chairman when the GOP convention opens Monday.

Race Car Kills Boy Sitting On Fence

CIRCLEVILLE, O. (AP)—Six-year-old Ralph Morehart sat on the fence so he could better see the racing cars as they spun around the one-third mile track at Pickaway County Fairgrounds.

It was the first qualifying race. Ralph watched the stock cars circle the track once. The first four cars flashed by the second time. The fifth car, driven by William Taylor, 24, Lancaster, careened crazily on a turn, crashed through a retaining wall and the fence on which Ralph was sitting. Then it hit two empty parked cars.

Ralph was rushed to Children's Hospital in Columbus. His skull was fractured, both legs broken. He died a short time later.

Four other persons leaning on the fence were injured. They are: Lionel Goebel, 52, Amanda; S-Sgt. Earl Saunders, 32, Lockbourne Air Force Base; Ronnie Saunders, 2, the sergeant's son, and Ralph's brother, Billy Morehart, 8. They were taken to Berger Hospital in Circleville.

Alliance Man Drowns On Vacation

ALLIANCE—Roy C. Meeker, 49, of 601 Vincent Blvd., a ceramic engineer and sales engineer of the Kentucky-Tennessee Clay Co., drowned yesterday while vacationing at Temagami, Ont.

Authorities reported Meeker apparently had a heart attack while paddling a canoe on Lake Temagami. He was in the canoe with his 17-year-old son, William, when he bent over and slipped overboard into the lake. The son managed to get the body to shore.

Meeker had lived in Alliance 19 years.

His widow, Kate; a daughter, Katherine, and a brother, Lester, also survive. Services are to be held Monday at 3:30 p. m. at the Cassaday & Turkle funeral home.

Four New Appointments Made To Salem Teaching Staff

Four new teachers were appointed to the teaching staff of Salem schools at a Board of Education meeting this week. Supt. of Schools E. S. Kerr announced today.

Richard N. Berryman of East Palestine will replace Chet Tetlow as assistant basketball coach and instructor in geography at the high school. Berryman is a graduate of Ohio State University where he participated in Big Ten basketball. He has been teaching and coaching at York Township High School in Clyde.

Richard J. Long will return to the Reilly School teaching staff after two years of military service in Korea. He spent three years in service during World War II and is a graduate of Mount Union.

Miss Marjorie A. Gibson of Wilona Rd. has been appointed as a teacher in the elementary grades, probably at Prospect School, where an additional 4th grade must be set up. She is a graduate of Davis-Elkins College, W. Va. and has been teaching in Wayne School, Columbiana County.

The fourth teacher appointed was Miss Fannie Dickey of New Waterford who will probably be assigned to Buckeye School to replace Mrs. Mary Bodo-Fowler who has taken a year's leave due to ill health. Miss Dickey is a graduate of Kent State University and has taught for the past five years at New Waterford.

The board announced that the following members of the Salem schools teaching staff would continue their contracts:

Loren Early, principal of Junior Maple, Reilly; Mary Schragg, Prospect; Roger Fitzsimmons, Junior High; Hilda Hunter, Reilly; Ruth Maple, Reilly; Mary Schragg, Prospect; Helen Skelton, McKinley; Elizabeth Ward, Junior High; Irene Weeks, high school; and Jean Winegard, Prospect.

Formal approval was also given to the City Park Commission to use Buckeye and Prospect playgrounds for supervised play.

Cash, Gold Stolen At Local Dentist's Office

Dr. Frank J. Mangus reported to police at 9:25 a. m. today that someone entered his office at 657 E. State St. sometime since 5:30 p. m. Thursday and stole $30 in bills and change and approximately $50 worth of gold used in dental work.

Police found no damage to windows or doors to indicate entry by force. A desk drawer containing the money had been broken open, however. The gold was taken from a case in the office room.

3 Road Accidents Occur In District

A car driven by John Brooks, 26, of Pittsburgh and a pickup truck driven by John VanPelt, 17, of near Columbiana collided at 8:30 a. m. today on Route 14 west of Columbiana, the State Highway Patrol reported.

Cars driven by Oscar Porter of Cleveland and Raymond Wells, 24, of Sandusky collided at 12:15 p. m. Friday on Route 45, four miles north of Lisbon.

Another minor accident occurred at 3:30 p. m. Friday when a car driven by Herman Oswalt, 45, of Sebring was backed out of a garage on the Johnston Rd. one-half mile south of Route 62, and struck a car driven by Donald Wilson, 44, of Alliance.

Not One Allied Aircraft Lost In July 4 Raid

Big Military School Levelled; No Allied Planes Lost This Week

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—United Nations pilots destroyed or damaged 21 Communist jets and leveled a big Red military school without losing a single plane in a Fourth of July raid near the Manchurian border, the U. S. Fifth Air Force reported today.

About 70 U. S. Thunderjet fighter-bombers hurled explosives and flaming gasoline on a large headquarters building and barracks structures at the school, 20 miles south of the Yalu River. Intelligence reports estimated 1,500 Communist officer candidates were to have been graduated there this month.

85 Sabres Rip MIGs

Eighty-five American Sabre jets ripped into formations of 115 Russian-built MIG15s bent on thwarting the strike.

The fast Sabres bagged their second highest toll of MIGs for any single day of the war, the Air Force said—12 destroyed, two probably destroyed and seven damaged.

The Air Force said camera film had confirmed 10 kills, one probable and four damaged.

Weekly Report Good

The Fourth of July battle ended a week in which no Allied planes were lost over North Korea, the Air Force said. It was the first such week since last August.

The U. S. Eighth Army said the roughest ground action was near Panmunjom. Defenders of an Allied outpost forced Communist attackers to withdraw after an hour's exchange of grenade and small arms fire early today.

Heaviest artillery exchange was on the "Old Baldy" and "T-Bone" Hill sector near Chorwon on the Western Front.

Senator Asks Probe Of Funds For Campaigns

By The Associated Press

A congressional investigation of campaign spending by men who seek the presidency was demanded today by one of them.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, technically a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination as Minnesota's "favorite son," said it is important to know whether the cost of a presidential campaign is now so high that only the wealthy, or those supported by the wealthy, can attain the nation's highest office.

He asked the Senate elections subcommittee for a full scale study of the subject embracing presidential aspirants of both major parties.

Mentioning no names, Humphrey said that if charges of political deals, stealing delegates and smear literature are true "we are witnessing the degradation of the nominating process." If it is not stopped, he said, it will mean "we have allowed a price tag to be placed on the presidency."

With Republicans still screaming at each other over the way the GOP National Committee handled disputed delegates to the National Convention opening in Chicago Monday, a Democratic delegate contest shaped up today in Mississippi.

Pro-Truman Democrats, offering an unconditional pledge of loyalty to the national party, held a state convention in Jackson, Miss., to elect delegates to the National Convention starting in Chicago July 21. The loyalist delegates will challenge a states rights slate for Mississippi's 18 votes at the National Convention.

DROWNS IN POND

DOVER, O. (AP)—The sheriff's office reported today that Marlin Hochstetler, 19, of Atwood, Ind., drowned while trying to swim across a 150-foot pond.

Hochstetler was visiting his uncle, Milo Miller, near Sugar Creek. The body has been returned to Atwood. Hochstetler was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Monroe Hochstetler.

Knickerbocker Gets Promotion

Salvation Army Transfers Officer

First Lt. Hubert S. Knickerbocker, who has served here as head of the Salvation Army for the past two and one-half years has been transferred to the Steubenville Citadel, effective July 2.

Replacing Lt. Knickerbocker here will be Lt. Donald Seiler of Akron, who will arrive in Salem about July 16. In charge of the Salem citadel until his arrival will be Lt. Shirley Brown of Tarentum, Pa., assisted by Lt. Elsie Betts of Canton.

Lieutenants Brown and Betts will leave Salem to take over the appointment Lt. Seiler leaves in Akron.

During Lt. Knickerbocker's stay in Salem, the basement of the citadel has been completely renovated and other building improvements made. Advancement also has been made in the number of corps members, and his work among the youth has been outstanding.

The youth camp he has been planning for August in cooperation with civic and fraternal organizations in the county is the largest undertaking ever planned here.

The lieutenant pledged a week in summer camp for all underprivileged children of the county and expected to carry out the plan. Money is already pledged for many of the children and the work will be carried on by Lt. Seiler.

Church Of The Nazarene

The 13th General Assembly of the Church of the Nazarene closed June 27 in Kansas City, Mo., showing an increase in membership from 10,000 members assembled in October, 1908, in Pilot Point, Tex., to a world membership 44 years later of 257,964.

Rev. and Mrs. E. M. Parks attended from the Salem church with some 10,000 other delegates.

There are 309 Nazarene missionaries in 28 areas of the world. The church maintains offices, a publishing house, radio league office and theological seminary and distributes its official publication, "Herald of Holiness," to 10,000 homes each week.

The church gave $5,200,000 in the past four years to foreign missions, and each person averaged $11.76 by tithing, placing fourth among churches in the nation in giving. Total of $7,580,000 was given last April for general budget and mission specials.

Assembly Of God

Rev. Clarence Hahn, pastor of the Assembly of God Tabernacle, will speak at the regular monthly communion service this Sunday on "The Need of Thought."

In the evening, Miss Marguerite Flint, a missionary on furlough from India, will be guest speaker. Miss Flint has spent 30 years in the mission fields and will return to duty this fall.

A Hymn Is Born

BY CLINT BONNER

I Must Tell Jesus

A distraught woman inspires the writing of a consoling hymn

Burdened with seemingly unbearable sorrow, a despondent woman wrung her hands and repeatedly cried "What shall I do... what shall I do?" To which a sympathetic minister replied, "You can do nothing better than tell your sorrow to Jesus." Thus was the setting for the writing of one of the most popular of gospel hymns.

When Pennsylvania's Rev. Elisha A. Hoffman was not busy on sermons and hymns he was working among the poor and downcast. By standards of large churches, the Evangelical minister was not a great preacher. By standards of a useful life Elisha Hoffman was, like his father, a great minister. It was while serving a church at Lebanon, some 30 miles from the little town of Orwigsburg where he was born in 1839, that Hoffman experienced the touching scene that inspired the writing of one of the greatest of his more than 2,000 gospel hymns.

While visiting a parishoner's home where "God permitted many visitations of sorrow and affliction" the kindly minister found the woman of the house in the depths of despair. Hoffman prayed with the woman and, as he put it, "I quoted from the Word" such passages as "Come unto me all ye that labor and are heavy laden and I will give you rest..." Still the woman frantically wrung her hands and repeated her cries, "What shall I do?" Finally the Rev. Hoffman suggested that she could do nothing better than "tell your sorrow to Jesus."

Relating the story, Elisha Hoffman said that as he left the home the woman "seemed absorbed with her thoughts... her eyes lighted up, and with animation she exclaimed, 'Yes, I must tell Jesus!'" "Down at the Cross Where My Saviour Died"—"Leaning on the Everlasting Arms" and "Are You Washed in the Blood of the Lamb?" are but a few well known gospel hymns from the pen of Elisha Hoffman that have echoed across America for half a century. But it was the ringing words of a downcast woman that inspired the writing of one of his greatest. On his way home the phrase, "I Must Tell Jesus," kept running through Hoffman's mind. He went directly to his study and wrote both music and the words...

I must tell Jesus all of my trials;
I cannot bear these burdens alone;
In my distress He kindly will help me,
He ever loves and cares for His own.

I must tell Jesus all of my troubles;
He is a kind, compassionate Friend;
If I but ask Him, He will deliver,
Make of my troubles quickly an end.

Tempted and tried I need a great Saviour;
One who can help my burdens to bear;
I must tell Jesus, I must tell Jesus;
He all my cares and sorrows will share.

O how the world to evil allures me!
O how my heart is tempted to sin!
I must tell Jesus, and He will help me
Over the world the victory to win.

Chorus:
I must tell Jesus! I must tell Jesus!
I cannot bear my burdens alone;
I must tell Jesus! I must tell Jesus!
Jesus can help me, Jesus alone.

New Pastor To Preach First Sermon

Rev. C. Clare Davis, newly assigned through the Methodist Conference to be minister to the provide for the security of the Salem Church, will preach his first sermon here Sunday. His topic will be, "You Have Everything."

The pastor comes from the South Euclid Methodist Church where the former pastor here, Rev. Richard Swogger, has been assigned.

Augmenting the Sunday morning service will be special music by a sextet of women of the choir singing, "Lift Thine Eyes." Mrs. Loren Early is in charge of the sextet, comprised also of Mrs. R. S. Aikenhead, Mrs. Dana Floding, Mrs. Homer Taylor, Mrs. Harry Loria, and Mrs. Harold D. Smith.

The new minister was at one time preacher in Washingtonville while he worked for his degree at Mount Union. After three years of study at Mount Union, he went to Boston University to complete his ministerial degree. Among churches early in his ministry were Franklin Square and Harts Churches.

Mr. Davis is a noted worker among the youth and for 25 years has served as faculty member, manager and dean of the summer institutes. He also was president of the Canton District Epworth League and conference president of the league. Youth work always has been emphasized in his ministry.

The annual church picnic is scheduled for July 23 at Firestone Park in pavilion 2.

Cuban Police Arrest Nation's 2 Top Reds

HAVANA, Cuba. (AP)—Police arrested two of the nation's top Communists last night in a continuing major roundup of Red party leaders ordered after a Communist demonstration against Gen. Fulgencio Batista's government.

Lazaro Pena, former secretary-general of the Cuban Confederation of Labor, and Jose Morera, former organizing secretary of the confederation, were taken into custody as they stepped off an international plane from Amsterdam.

The Communist street demonstration last week resulted in the death of one bystander.

Confident Living

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

Vacation All Year Round

We are well into the vacation season now and most of the people we know seem to be just coming from or just going off on their vacations. It makes conversation a bit easier and the topic of vacations seems to have replaced the weather as an ice-breaker.

Just the other day I asked one of the busiest men I know what his vacation plans were. "Oh, that," he said, "I take a vacation every day."

I was surprised. "How do you manage it," I asked.

"Well," he told me, "I just take about fifteen minutes or a half hour and relax completely every day of my life. It's true that I get out of town for a couple of weeks each year, but that's just for the change of scenery all of us need once in a while. But I vacation all year round."

This man has learned an important lesson in living. He knows how to take it easy. Too many of us wait until summer vacations to relax and then we rush off to some resort where we're busier than ever and come back even more tired than we were when we went away.

A CHANGE OF scene is a good thing and certainly the wholesome outdoor fun most of us have at resorts is well worthwhile. But is it really a vacation? We really get away from our tensions? The word "vacation" itself is derived from a Latin word "vacatio," which means being free from a duty and usual chores. Do YOU free yourself entirely when you're away?

If you learn to relax, you can vacation all year round. It only takes a few minutes each day and it can make you a healthier and happier person. I once wrote ten rules for relaxation and for losing tension. I give them to you now so that you can enjoy the benefits of vacationing—365 days a year:

1. Get fifteen minutes of quietness each day.

2. Try to take this period at the busiest time of your day; prove you are master of your own busy-ness.

3. Sit and completely yield yourself to your chair; relax your body.

4. Inhale and exhale three deep breaths; raise your arms and allow your hands to fall on your knees like wet leaves on a log. (What is more relaxed than a wet leaf on a log?)

5. Conceive of God's lasting peace as touching in turn every muscle in your face and body, finally resting lightly like a hand on your eyes.

6. RELAX YOUR mind; practice the art of imagination by thinking of a pleasant trip to far-away places.

7. Carry your imaginings a step further; see yourself by a cool, clear lake with great hills enshrouded in their mystic haze of blue shouldering out the sky—re-capture the most peaceful scene you know.

8. Relax the soul by practicing the art of affirmation; the repeated assertion that you possess God's peace will tend to bring it to you.

9. Repeat these statements: "Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace, whose mind is stayed on thee;" "Come unto me... and I will give you rest," and "Peace I give unto you." Make these statements personal by inserting your own name.

10. Affirm that all evil (hate, impure thinking, dishonest desires) is being drained out of your soul; these evils are the infection center of tension and as they go, relaxation becomes complete.

Why not give this technique a trial? It has worked for many and I'm sure it can work for you.

Brethren Church Pastor Retires

Rev. Arno Holderreed To Be New Minister

COLUMBIANA—Rev. Hugh Clappert, 241 Spruce St., has resigned from the pastorate of Zion Hill Church of the Brethren and retired from the active ministry after nearly 40 years' service. He will make his home in Dayton where his children, a son and four daughters, are living.

Rev. Clappert came from Indiana to the Columbiana pastorate about two years ago. His wife died in March, 1951, the first year of their residence here. He served seven churches during his ministry.

Rev. Arno Holderreed of North Manchester, Ind., will be the new pastor of Zion Hill Church, but will not assume his duties until September. Rev. G. S. Strausbaugh, 122 W. Salem St., who retired from the active ministry in 1945 after more than 12 years as pastor of Zion Hill Church, will serve as interim pastor.

Russell Jewell, landlord of the Park Hotel, and William Leippy have purchased from John Coler the hotel taxi service with they will take over Monday morning.

Food lockers at the plant of the Northeast Ohio Poultry Association were to be emptied some time today. Dry ice has been put in the locker room to keep the food frozen until removal. Persons having food stored there are advised to find other accommodation. C. T. Newsom, manager, estimates that the plant may have to suspend for a month for repairs from the Tuesday morning blast.

MRS. BERTHA Esenwein will be in charge of a daily vacation Bible School at the East Fairfield Methodist Church, which will begin Monday with sessions from 9 to 11:30 a.m. five days a week through July 18, when a program at 8 p.m. will mark the close. Children of three to 15 years of age will be welcome.

Teachers will be Miss Evelyn Voorhis and Mrs. Myron Flannery, nursery department; Miriam Cope and Kathleen Chamberlain, beginners; Mrs. Mary Witten, Mrs. Mary Hawkins, Lorena Flannery and Judy Gorbey, primary; Rev. E. C. Brooks, pastor, and Mrs. Esenwein, junior; Mrs. Virginia Crook and Beverly Bable, intermediate.

The fire department was called to the residence of Miss Nellie Kock of 130 S. Main St., just north of Grace Evangelical and Reformed Church at 11:30 a.m. Friday by a small blaze in the basement, which was quickly put out.

The blaze was in an antique cupboard filled with cast off material. Spontaneous combustion appeared to be the cause. An odor of gasoline from the sewer in the alley in the rear of the Koch premiss had caused some speculation but the fire could not be connected up with that. Damage was slight.

MR. AND MRS. Clyde Richardson Sr., New Springfield Rd., spent last week at the annual All-American Polomino show at Eaton, O. Their two-year-old filly, Beauty Maid Pot o' Gold, won the blue ribbon in the two-year-old class, received the junior championship ribbon and defeated the senior championship mare of the show. She is to be declared the grand champion mare of the All-American show. She was also the champion two-year-old in fine harness.

Beauty Maid is in training at the Mastic Stables, Cleveland, where her trainer is Marion Chensault. Mr. and Mrs. Dick Richardson and Mr. and Mrs. James Gaughn of Columbiana also attended the show Saturday and Sunday.

The annual reunion of Lisbon and Columbiana winter sojourners at St. Petersburg, Fla., will be held in Pavilion 4, Firestone Park, August 7.

Floyd Lower, Columbiana county farm extension agent, and Dan Simmons, president of the Columbiana County Horticulture Society, announce the first twilight meeting of the season for Columbiana and Mahoning County orchard men, to be held at the Forest Stiler orchard a mile west of Franklin Square at 7 p.m. Tuesday, July 8. C. R. Cutright of the Ohio Experiment Station will give the latest information on the insect situation and suggested controls.

Leetonia

4 Vacancies Still Open In Schools

LEETONIA—Supt. of Schools D. D. Rummel announces that four teachers are needed to complete the staff of Leetonia district schools before the opening of school in September. They are an industrial arts and science teacher in high school and two grade school teachers.

Six resignations have been received since May. They include W. W. Bailey, industrial arts teacher who has accepted a position in Struthers schools; Harry Regula, basketball coach and junior high football coach and science teacher, who has accepted a position of physical education instructor and assistant coach in Mansfield schools; Nicholas Chroniak, instrumental music department supervisor, who has accepted a similar position in Twin Falls, Idaho schools; Miss Sally Slee, 4th grade teacher at the South Side building, who has accepted a similar position in Steubenville schools; Miss Martha Yarian, 3rd grade teacher at Washintonville school and Miss Kathleen Curry, elementary music teacher, who was married in June.

MISS CAROLYN Swope, RD 2, Leetonia, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Swope, has been engaged by the Board of Education to teach elementary music. She graduated from Bluffton College in 1952.

Earl Shafer, Oil City, Pa., a 1952 graduate of State Teachers College, Indiana, Pa., has been engaged as supervisor of instrumental music. Mr. Shafer will take over his duties as leader of the band at once.

Mrs. Joseph Justice, who completed the term as teacher of Grades 1 and 2 at the North Side Building following the resignation of Mrs. Robert Gibson in March, has been engaged to teach those grades.

Mrs. Lena Lewis of near Salem, a former teacher in Leetonia grade schools, has been engaged as a teacher in the elementary grades.

Harry W. Krall Jr. of Youngstown, who has served as assistant coach at Struthers the past year, has been engaged as basketball coach and junior high football coach.

Miss Ruth Bauman, who has a two year leave of absence to teach in Ethiopia, has informed the board she will not return for another year.

Miss Hazel Ginther, 3rd grade teacher at the South Side Building, has been granted a years leave of absence because of the illness of her mother.

THERE WILL be no card party at the Rebekah Hall Saturday evening.

Holy Communion will be observed at the 11 a.m. service Sunday at the Presbyterian Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Ballo and family are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Maruca at Hartford, Conn.

Mrs. William Gibson is visiting this week with her brother-in-law and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Verner Lucas of Pittsburgh.

Patrol Delays Daughter Of Ex-President On Trip

LIMA, O. (AP)—The State Highway Patrol Friday night delayed Alice Roosevelt Longworth's trip to the Republican National Convention in Chicago.

Patrolman Milford Corbin stopped her car seven miles north of here and charged her chauffeur with speeding 75 miles an hour where the limit is 50 miles an hour.

Mrs. Longworth, daughter of former President Theodore Roosevelt, posted $40 bond for her chauffeur, Richard Turner, 54, of Washington. Then they continued their trip from Washington to Chicago.

Mrs. Longworth is the widow of Nicholas Longworth, late speaker of the House of Representatives.

2 Jet Planes Collide; Pilots Slightly Hurt

SPRINGFIELD, O. (AP)—Two Air Force jet pilots bailed out of their F-86 Sabre jets near here Friday after the planes collided in the air. Both planes crashed and burned on a farm seven miles south of Springfield.

The pilots are 1st Lt. James W. Leatherbee and 1st Lt. Donald J. Grassell. They were in a flight of four ships returning to Truax Field, Madison, Wis., by way of Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, Dayton, from air defense exercises at Washington.

Neither pilot was hurt seriously.

OLDEST OHIO MASON DIES

Unfinished Project

Since late last winter when the hodge-podge arrangements for putting together the conventions of the major parties got underway in New Hampshire, Americans have been watching in bug-eyed amazement.

They forget after each presidential year what a disjointed, aimless, bickering, inefficient and frustrating project it is to bring a political party to a convention focus.

And every time they are reminded anew by quarrels over delegates and sectional feuds that the party comes pretty close to destroying itself in the attempt, they wonder if they have misplaced their confidence in the two-party system.

The fact is, there is more of a two-party practice than a two-party system. The system is an unfinished project. What there is of it is held together by a few customers and a great many rules, all subject to change.

Though the party convention has been a practice since 1831, nothing about selecting delegates has become standardized. In some states, the rules are rigged from year to year to suit the political bosses and the candidates. The reform movement which brought the direct primary into vogue early in this century fizzled and died when it was discovered that politicians were just as capable of manipulating a primary as a convention.

There undoubtedly is a better way to do all this than the way it is being done. As the climax of the quadrennial mixup which finally is resolved into a convention—barring a bolt by would-be delegates who didn't make the grade—it seems plain that unless a better way can be developed, the two-party practice will become the victim of its failure to become a two-party system.

Must The Show Go On?

In that squabble over whether or not committee hearings for the Republican convention should have been turned into a show for radio and television, every citizen had a stake.

This is the same squabble which has been breaking out periodically ever since flash bulbs, floodlights, microphone booms and, most recently, television paraphernalia began to make deliberations in newsworthy meetings virtually impossible.

It has become a question as to whether everything must be done for effect on the listening and looking public, or whether there are some things which men should try to do in the old-fashioned way.

One can wonder what the Constitutional Convention in 1787 would have accomplished with microphone booms, floodlights, flash bulbs and running commentaries by rum and musket salesmen to keep the delegates' minds off the self-evident truths they were trying to resolve into fundamental law.

The matter is of special interest to newspapers, whether the issue is over committee hearings in Chicago, sessions of Congress, or proceedings in a courtroom. The press does not deny any other agency of information the right to obtain news on an equal basis.

But by that token, the press itself has long been aware that a holy show put on by a room-full of electronic technicians and commentators puts even the press at a disadvantage. In fact, the press is finding it harder and harder to maintain the people's right to know what is going on because it is being made to suffer for nuisances created by technicians dedicated to the proposition that the show must go on at any cost—even at the cost of making mockeries of what used to be deliberative proceedings.

Cherry Pie Week

While it is not a formal occasion, at least in this part of the country, cherry pie week is now in progress.

This is the annual season when a nimble boy, or grown man wishes he were nimble, balances on the top rung of a ladder propped against a wavering limb in a cherry tree in the back yard and challenges the birds for man's share of the cherry crop.

What happens thereafter to the cherries, from the picker's point of view, is vague. But within a short time there is a fresh cherry pie, not to be confused with any other variety of this standard American delicacy.

It is the sour-sweet confection that makes the eater glad he lives in the lands of high taxes and low politics. It melts in the mouth, though it sticks to the ribs. It is a delight to the eye and to the taste buds. And it calls for a second helping.

This is a bumper year for cherries. Aside from the probability of broken arms, legs, collarbones and decrepit ladders, cherry pie week is a festival of unmitigated pleasure. It puts the population in prime condition for dog days, and it's free. All you need is a cherry tree, and a cook who knows the secret of making a cherry pie, Billy boy.

There are two times Dad knows he shouldn't have spent all that money for the family's vacation—before and after!

GOP Politicians

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Behavior Engenders New Dem Regime

This is probably an opportune occasion to survey the wreckage that has been caused by the pre-convention campaign in both the Republican and Democratic parties. For much of the damage done is not repairable.

First, Senator Taft has been accused so much of being an "isolationist" that all Europe will become nervous if he is nominated. Opposition socialists in Britain, France and Germany will call immediately for a "negotiated" peace with Russia on the theory that aid from America will cease and that a bargain had better be arranged now with Moscow. This is an absurd inference for them to draw, but they'll exploit it just the same.

Senator Taft will carry out the pledges of the treaties made by the United States and, if he is nominated, one of his first considerations should be to make a trip to Europe not only to familiarize himself with what is going on there but to reassure European peoples that he intends to carry out American commitments.

SECOND, while the American people were quite ready to vote out of power the Democratic administration as a corrupt affair in which "deals" are made with private groups and special privileges are granted, the lack of character displayed in connection with the handling of Texas and Louisiana and other southern delegations to the Republican convention has produced a profound doubt as to whether a Republican administration will be any better than the Democrats.

Third, General Eisenhower's glamor as a candidate has been reduced in its effectiveness because of widely circulated attacks which have given the Democrats plenty of ammunition in the event that the General is nominated. It no longer is as certain as it was that, if nominated, Eisenhower would be elected.

Fourth, corruption as an issue will have a hollow sound if spoken by Senator Taft after the manner in which his supporters have steam-rolled the convention preliminaries. It seems surprising that the Taft Republicans should be so indifferent to the impression made on public opinion on the eve of a presidential campaign.

FIFTH, the Eisenhower candidacy has been damaged by a lack of coherent planning by his managers. The spread of the "Taft can't win" doctrine by his supporters may have won lots of delegates but it creates a psychology that will handicap the Ohio senator immeasurably if he is the nominee.

Sixth, President Truman has managed, by his recent acts, to do more harm to the cause of his party than any active candidate in the race could have done.

Mr. Truman's reckless attitude in the steel controversy, his refusal to tell the steel companies how much of a price increase they will get until they agree to compulsory unionization for their workers in perhaps the worst conspiracy in the history of labor disputes in America—a conspiracy between the labor-union chiefs and the President of the United States to refrain from using a law that both houses of Congress have requested him to use to bring about a resumption of steel production.

Seventh, the Democratic Party has failed to resolve the "civil rights" issue, and Mr. Truman's attitude has prevented a compromise. If he should instigate the nomination of anyone who accepts his version of the civil-rights question, it would mean a bolt by the South. It looks as if Governor Stevenson of Illinois is not anxious to be labeled as a "Trumanite" and, if nominated, will reach out for independent votes by declaring himself a free agent—beholden to nobody in the present or preceding administrations in the making of his policies.

EIGHTH, the decision by Mr. Truman to invite Mrs. Roosevelt to appear as a political partisan at the Democratic national convention and talk on the Subject of the "United Nations" will not increase respect for the U.N. or for Mrs. Roosevelt or for Mr. Truman.

If any officials should have been kept out of the campaign, it was those who are engaged in a non-partisan activity for our government, and, above all, the personnel of America's delegation to the United Nations.

Ninth, the use in both Democratic and Republican parties of maneuvers whereby professional politicians select the nominees in a body blow against confidence in the two-party system and, in the government itself. For, if politicians select the nominees without regard to the wishes of the people, there can be little faith in their utterances or pious expressions on national and international policy.

Mr. Truman has it in his power by further mistakes and blunders virtually to force the election of the Republican nominee, no matter who he is. But if Governor Stevenson repudiates enough Trumanism to carry the independent vote which has been drawing away from the Democratic Party, he would have an excellent chance of being elected, no matter who the Republicans choose.

Thus, the trend toward another have given the Democrats plenty that will handicap the Ohio senator immeasurably if he is the nominee.

Sixth, President Truman has managed, by his recent acts, to do more harm to the cause of his

Not Air Power Alone

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

Because of the way the issue was broached, the question of America's air power has been plunged into the thick of politics. This is unfortunate, since the strategic aspects ought to transcend politics.

Senator Taft began the current discussion by asserting that our only safe course is to create air strength "sufficient to control the air over this country, over the oceans which surround this continent and able to deliver atom bombs on Russian cities."

He feels that America's "land generals" have blocked the adoption of such a policy. He clearly believes that proper stress upon air power will do away with the need for a large land force and that the net result will be sounder and cheaper military security.

Now there is probably not a competent "land general" in this country who would deny the dominant role of air power in any future war. And certainly the air generals would like to see vast expansion of their forces for both offensive and defensive use.

But it is also likely that no qualified air general believes that even the happiest enlargement of air power he can envisage would make this nation safe without accompanying land power.

It has been said again and again but apparently it does not register on those who simply do not wish to believe it: air experts are convinced you cannot count on delivering the atom bomb effectively by reliance only on long-range bombers. They are currently dubious about the place of the giant bomber in that task. They insist that medium-range bombers would inevitably carry a big part of the burden.

Medium-range bombers mean bases closer to potential Russian targets than the continental United States or even any chain of islands in mid-Atlantic. They mean bases in Europe and North Africa.

And bases cannot be held by air power alone. They are land. They must be protected by land forces and not necessarily those of the country whose territory is involved. This is just rock-bottom fact from which no competent military strategist, whatever his belief in air power, attempts to escape.

There is no evidence, either, that a colossal air force would save the country money. The cost of planes alone is staggering today. But beyond that there would have to be a huge allotment of manpower to cover air crews, maintenance and administration. Even our present air force demands a million men.

To rely fully upon air power, too, would put the fate of Europe's great cities in the hands of long-range bombers whose usefulness in any new war is uncertain. Naturally we should encourage the Europeans to fight a land war on the continent—should it come—with all they can muster. Yet, since our own security is involved in the safety of Europe, it would seem sensible to have some share in the ground defense.

Beyond these purely selfish considerations, we still consider the Europeans our friends and allies. What assurance is it to them to be told: "Never mind if the Russians pour across your border and bomb your cities. We'll bomb their cities to ruins."

Especially since no one who has anything to do with really employing air power believes a war could be fought successfully that way.

"Goin' My Way?"

Social Problem Of Pensions

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

A pension is a saving out of wages, with or without employer participation. It is like buying an annuity, a life insurance policy, stocks, bonds or any other investment or putting money in a savings bank.

There is no reason for the mysticism which surrounds the word; it is a method of putting aside money for the rainy day.

When an employer participates in a pension fund, he, in effect, provides additional wages. This means that an increasing share of the earnings goes to salaries and wages, a cost which always must be added to the price of the commodity or service sold.

In an inflationary period, this cost must be related to the purchaser's sales resistance; in an inflationary period, any additional cost decreases the purchasing power of our money.

IN AN OLDER and more secure America, such matters were regarded as the privilege of the individual who decided for himself, at his own risk, what he wished to do with his own money. In our present fabian socialistic America, in which freedom of judgment and equality of opportunity are being bartered for fiscal security, the pension has grown increasingly popular.

The problem here is the same as in the very nature of wages. It depends on the ratio of the value of money when spent. For instance, the American dollar is now valued, in purchasing power, at 53 cents. Pensions granted in, say 1939 or 1940, are worth about half today.

This may be satisfactory to the individual concerned, but it is not security. The only way to make such a pension secure is to have the payments at all times made in money of the value at the time the amount was paid in. This is an utterly impossible proposition because even on a small scale, such a procedure would produce a spiral inflation with a black market for trading in pension checks which would be the best currency available.

The pension depends upon prosperity. Unless it is paid out of taxes. From that standpoint, it is the same as profit-sharing. A 1929 dip in our economy could wipe out pension funds. A greater danger is that employer participation is possible only while the individual works for the particular firm, except when a life insurance company annuity plan continues the pension upon new employment.

However, a period of unemployment means prolonged non-payments into pension funds. It is not possible to guarantee permanent full employment in any country. Unemployment insurance or relief is not the same as employment.

THEREFORE, to repeat, the value of the pension depends not only on the value of the currency of a country but also upon continued employment while the pension fund is being built up. This involves a prolonged progressive of static economy with no retrogressive periods. Such an economy has not yet existed in human history, even among new countries building an industry from scratch.

The real problem, then in any pension scheme, is not only to provide for the security of the individual and his family, but for the security of the pension fund itself. There has been a vast experience with this in Germany where pension funds were general from Bismarck to Hitler. What the inflation after World War I did not wipe out, the fiscal policies of Hitler and effects of World War II did. The German pension systems deteriorated with the collapse, first, of German currency, and then of German industry.

ONE OF THE principal social objections to current American pension systems is the actuarially-enforced retirement of strong, able-bodied, mentally alert and long-experienced persons at the age of 65. Because medical science and improved social conditions have not only prolonged life but also human usefulness, this country is being faced by an increasingly large population of frustrated men and women who could continue their work but are put out at the peak of their knowledge and usefulness.

This is a separate problem to which State Senator Thomas Desmond in New York has devoted himself—the problem of the oldsters. The pension might provide enough to buy a trailer and to trapeze about the country following the seasons from Florida to Yellowstone, but it does not make for pride or human dignity or personal satisfaction.

This social problem grows more important as the older folks grow more numerous and healthier.

Keep Moving

By TRUMAN TWILL

It all depends on how you look at it, but if you look at it one way it came to pass in the middle of the 20th century that this whole silly country went nuts over the god of motion.

Under hard prodding by the god's enforcement agents, the population was forced into a cult of motion-worship; i.e., motion for motion's sake. Everybody had to keep moving. No one could stop, under penalty of popular displeasure.

The signs said: No Stopping, No Loafing, No Lying on the Grass, No Loitering. Keep Moving. Step Along Please, Faster, Faster, Faster!

Back of this there was a credo composed of equal parts of frenzy and frustration. Everybody was afraid of what would happen if someone stopped suddenly and frustrated because someone always did. And when that happened, no one knew what to do.

A fallen tree across a main artery of motion, a cow on the track, an impediment in an underground passage, or a ship sunk in a canal brought wholesale panic.

Any natural disorder, such as a deep snow, a heavy rainfall, or a landslide which caused motion to diminish was a major catastrophe.

A cessation of motion caused by a failure of electric power, a hole in the pavement, a broken-down walkway was an automatic signal for a police squad to arrive on the scene pronto, to make everything start moving again.

An errant individual tiring of being on the go, with no place to go, was an invitation for someone to suspect dirty work going on which must be nipped in the bud with a charge of vagrancy.

Nothing sparked off indignation in the court of the god of motion like a voluntary dissent to the proposition that everybody must keep moving. Woe to him who wondered why, if he stopped to wonder. As long as he stayed in motion, no one cared.

Things must go faster and faster in order to stay where they are—a whimsy that had been lifted from the amiable nonsense of Lewis Carroll's "Alice in Wonderland" and incorporated into the going practices of the republic of the United States in the middle reaches of the 20th century.

Even though it was common knowledge that the only reason for most motion was to go somewhere in order to turn around and come back, this in itself was one of the sources of wealth. Human beings in motion used up energy in the form of food and fuel. Human beings sitting passively used up nothing but space needed to facilitate motion, therefore give them a summons, elbow them out of the way, drag them off to dance vile and pass another law against idleness. That was the way it had to be.

Get things moving, jump up and down and sideways, shuffle the feet, wave the arms, shoot off the mouth, write, twist, fuss and fidget. Avoid suspicion and censure. Be up and doing. Cover the distance from the cradle to the grave like a kangaroo. Be a success. Be a whirlwind dervish.

Climb a mountain, fly like a bird, become a diver, be brisk, be bumpious, beat the other fellow to the punch, git thar fustest with the mostest, look alive and surge ever upward and onward. The god of motion was watching and keeping track. He would reward those who served him best with an eternal ride on a celestial merry-go-round—up and down and round and round forever, with no time to ponder the reason why—just keep moving, bub, or pull off into the ditch and die.

That's the way it was. In the middle of the 20th century

Once Over

By H. I. PHILLIPS

Oh, For a Yacht

This is the yachting season. A yachtsman is a fellow who thinks recreation is something that has to be taken in a slanting position and that good fun is indelibly associated with damp clothing, windburn, poor cooking facilities and the business of shaking up a cocktail while off balance. He thinks he is getting away from it all just because he has to use charts to verify his whereabouts.

A boat gives a man the feeling of importance and position that comes with a white cap, gold buttons, salt spray on his beard and the ability to wash and shave in front of a swaying mirror in a form-fitting bathroom that pitches while zigging and zagging.

HIS LIFE IS a matter of tides, currents, changing winds, yachtclub assessments, notes saying, "Please remit," bad sleeping arrangements and an increasing grogginess due to forgetting to pull in his neck while going down hatchways. A yachtsman buys a boat to get away from the crowds and then loads it up with a mob of friends every week end. He takes up yachting for relaxation and spends the summer working like a galley slave to get between two given points the hard way at maximum expense. He winds up with sea-going ulcers caused by the fact no two yacht club chefs agree on what should go into a $2 lunch and a $4 dinner.

He navigates by compass, eats by impulse, rests by chance, drinks by custom and gets lost by tradition. He will walk out of a restaurant on dry land because his table is too far from the kitchen, but row 600 yards to and from a yacht club meal. He is sure indigestion is okay if he gets it off shore.

A YACHTSMAN has a ship's clock but carries two watches to find out what time it is. He carries a compass and set of charts but tells direction by hunch, intuition, wild guesses and the memory of what he did the last time he was lost. He enjoys life on the bias and thinks the scenery is wonderful if it slants. He spends the fall, winter and spring recovering from the summer.

He is said to have arrived in yachting circles when he has been named on a yacht club committee. This entitles him to participate in arguments that are more obscure and last longer than if conducted in non-yachting circles. If he is careless and forgets to keep his defense up, he gets to be a commodore. A commodore is a humdrum, only wetter. Once a man is a commodore he is in a position to dress like an admiral, look like a movie usher, and be busier than an ice cream vendor. The position is much sought, because a commodore can always keep his name off the list of members posted on July 15th as delinquent in dues.

ANOTHER IMPORTANT job is a fleet captain. A fleet captain is in charge of cruises. A cruise is said to occur when one yachtsman is observed zigzagging out of the harbor and 12 or more yachtsmen follow to see where he is going. How long the cruise lasts depends on the subsequent developments, making due allowance for wind, gasoline and conviviality.

Says Phoebe Snow about to go Upon a trip to Buffalo; "How odd to see our William White Foresake the road of anthracite Where things all white were quite all right."

Poor Phoebe sighs and wipes her eyes As she observes the parted ties: "How strange and tearful is the sight When Lackawanna, day or night, Lifts not a finger to stay White!"

A young lady has been chosen Miss Universe, and to us the amazing thing is that 30 girls believed they could measure up to it. . . . Fireworks, Dancing, Contests
Draw Crowd To Country Club

Fair weather, a huge crowd, swimming, boating, games and dancing, all topped off with a gala display of fireworks, made July 4 at the Salem Country Club one of the most successful holidays on record.

Winners in the swimming races included Ray Rogers, Bobbie Ehret, Judy Schaefer, Sussie Metz and Bootsie Holzwarth (egg and spoon); Tommie Lease, Jan Lieder, Tobey Cope, Linda Heston, Marsha Naragon and Laura Jean Matthews (free style for 8, 9 and 10 year olds);

Kenny Schaefer, Bob McArtor, Jim Schaefer, Patty Wycoff, Bobbie Wilms and Carol Schaefer (free style for 11, 12 and 13 year olds); John Litty, Ronny Schaefer, Glen Thomas, Mary Campbell, Heather Lozier and Carol McQuilkin (free style in race for 14, 15 and 16 year old youngsters);

In free style swimming for those aged 17 and up were Tommy Judge, George Fultz, John Schmid. Relay race team that won the contest was comprised of George Cusik, Buddie Roose and Danny Smith.

The diving contest was won by George Joseph and George Fultz. Judge Josef H. Sharp was the starter for the races.

Assisting was Horace Schwartz. Judges were George Rogers and Richard Strain. John C. Litty presented the various winners their prizes. The swimming program was arranged by Attorney Alfred Fitch.

Many hundreds were in the crowd which witnessed the fireworks that concluded the enjoyable day. The dance floor was thronged for the whole program, which was one of the highlights of the celebration.

Miss Elizabeth Henry of Lima was a guest July 4 of Mr. and Mrs. Byron Zimmerman of E. Pershing St. and Miss Clara Finney and Mrs. Thomas Bennett of E. Fourth St. Miss Henry is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Henry of Sebring, formerly of Salem.

Beardsley Family
Has 30th Reunion

Members of the Beardsley family enjoyed their 30th reunion July 4 at Boardman park. A picnic dinner, horseshoe pitching and a business meeting added interest to the day.

Officers re-elected were Donald Vincent of Salem, president; Jack Harris of Youngstown, vice president and Miss Julia Beardsley, secretary-treasurer. Present at the outing was Miss Marguerite Vincent, of Philadelphia, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Vincent of E. Third St.

The next reunion was planned for the fourth of July 1953 at same place.

Mrs. Marie Rich, who has been visiting at the homes of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Rich and Mr. and Mrs. L. L. McCluggage of E. Eighth St., has returned to Los Angeles, Calif., where she resides with her daughter and husband, Dr. and Mrs. Raymond Sprowl.

Raymond Arner of Pittsburgh is spending the weekend with his sister and brother, Lucy and Ralph Arner east of the city.

THE POODLE CUT offers you one of the easiest and prettiest ways to keep your hair this Summer. To give your poodle the necessary body, a home permanent is very much in order. Start with a soft-water shampoo for spanking-clean hair (upper left). Be careful to follow the directions exactly, and as they apply to your hair. Every poodle must be brushed and brushed regularly (center). Gentle fluff stroking will leave your short hair looking deftly swirled and feminine. This Summer's chapeaux in delicate pastels are made-to-order for your poodle (right), and will look especially smart for that after-five date. A properly-permanented poodle will take to wind and water, and still look pert and pretty.

On a honeymoon to New York City are Mr. and Mrs. Steve Gbur Jr. who were married at 10 a.m. Saturday, June 28, in St. Philip Neri Catholic Church in Dungan-

The bride, formerly Irene Miller is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mike Miller of Power, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Gbur Sr., also of Power Point.

Members of the immediate families witnessed the double-ring service.

The bride wore a royal blue suit with white accessories. She carried a white prayer book, a gift of her mother. An orchid formed a cover for her prayer book. The single strand of pearls she wore was the gift of the groom.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Plunkett were the attendants. Mrs. Plunkett was attired in a powder blue suit with white accessories and a corsage of white rosebuds.

The bride's parents were host for the dinner served at noon, after which the newlyweds left on their trip. They will reside in Lisbon.

The bride is a graduate of David Anderson High School in Lisbon and had been employed at the Woodbine Laundry in East Liverpool. Her husband is employed at the National Sanitary here.

Miss Delores Jackson
Wed To Victor Keene

Rev. Owen Glassburn performed the single-ring ceremony when Miss Delores Jean Jackson and Victor Earl Keene of Sebring were united in marriage at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Jackson, also of Sebring.

Wedding music was played by Mrs. Betty King, and Mrs. Gladys Johnson sang, "I Love You Truly" and "Because."

Approximately 50 relatives and friends attended the wedding and reception that followed.

Saxons Will Hold
Picnic And Dance

Salem Saxons are all set for a picnic and dance schedules for July 4 at the Saxon Country Club. Rudy Schuster is chairman of the committee which will present music by the Schnitzler Band of Akron.

As a special attraction, a group of children in costume will present a routine of folk dances. Another recent successful event sponsored by the Men's Saxon society was the annual children's outing last Sunday at the Saxon Country Club. Eugene Spack and his committee arranged games for the youngsters.

Fred Theiss, who was elected grand president of the Central-Verbund, national organization of the Saxon Society, was honored at a stag party Friday at the club grounds. The men enjoyed eats and cards on the program in charge of William Holzinger and his committee of the Saxon Society, commended Mr. Theiss, and others of the group spoke in tribute.

The society also is planning a dance for Aug. 16 at the club when Johnny Vadal of Cleveland and his orchestra will play for dancing. The public is invited. The men will meet next July 11.

COLLEGE BOUND

With the Help of Profits
From His Newspaper Route

TODAY, many enterprising young Americans—former Newspaperboys, like the typical college man above—are using part of the earnings from their routes as a future college fund. To these young merchants the money saved from route profits often means the difference between ordinary schooling and the specialized training needed for success in the career they choose.

Yet what they LEARN as Newspaperboys is just as valuable as what they EARN. The practical training in sales and service, collecting, record keeping, as well as the habits of punctuality, reliability and thrift all add up to a foundation for success in manhood. In addition to a college fund, they have extra money for clothes, sports, school and hobbies.

Greene, Blair Capture Salem Golf Club Flag Tournament

Greene Cards Low Gross 71 Blair Wins B Flight Honors

Dick Greene and R. C. Blair captured first place in the Salem Golf Club Flag Tournaments in Class A, and Class B flights in July 4 play.

Greene, in winning the major event of the day, carded a one-below-par 71 in his 18-hole holiday activities. He rapped up the initial round of play with a 36, even par, and finished the exceptional fine play with a 35 on the final nine holes. His handicap allowed him to play to the second hole on the third round before placing his flag two feet from the hole.

Blair, a Lisbon resident, did equally well in carding a 40-40-80 for the top honors in the B flight. Blair's handicap also allowed him to continue to the second hole, third round, where he placed his flag four feet from the hole.

Clyde Miller took second place honors in the A flight with a score of 38-39-77, five strokes over par. Vincent Judge won second place in the B flight with a 39-42-81 score.

Second to Greene's low gross of the day was Ed Knox, who fired a 36-37-73 for 18 holes. Knox finished one over par in the second round after playing even for the first nine holes. Blair and Judge were the low gross winners in the B flight.

Ralph Martin and Wentz Alsbough won the A and B flight honors in the Blind Bogey tourney for the day. Martin carded a 41-40-81 for the day and Alsbough finished with a 49-41-90.

Pro Les Johnston said play during the holiday was steady with many women taking part in the afternoon activities.

Get Correct Mental Picture; Don't Let Anyone Change It

GUARANTEED—Jackie Burke shows the proper position of the hands at the top of the backswing on a pitch shot—the left straight, hands not too high, body in hitting position, balance on right leg. From this position, a golfer must finish well. Everything is in good position at the top of the follow through. The weight has shifted to the left side.

By JACKIE BURKE (Last of a Series)

It goes without saying that a player intent on going places and enjoying golf should get some idea of how to play.

If you have the correct mental picture, take time to put it in practice.

I ou elieve in it, don't let anyone change it.

If you can't afford lessons, buy a copy of one of the better instruction books. One well illustrated with action shots. An excellent one is Ben Hogan's "Power Golf." Study the pictures closely.

Have a friend with a camera—preferably a movie camera—make pictures of you swinging. You'll be amazed at some of the mistakes you're making, such as failing to follow through, hitting off your right foot, etc.

Take about 15 minutes of practice swings daily, in and out of season. This will help you get and keep your swing grooved, develop proper muscles.

Remember to hit down on the ball with every club except the driver and putter. That is, strike first the ball, then the turf.

To do this, pay particular attention to getting the weight forward onto the left foot at the beginning of the downswing.

Most of the weight must be on the left foot at the instant of striking the ball. Just how much depends on the club.

Golf, probably more than any other game, is a matter of form. Strive for a smooth swing with proper balance and weight shifting.

Forget the pin and intervening hazards. Concentrate on a smooth unhurried swing.

Try to place fairway shots so you can come into the green through its proper opening instead of over traps, which prevent a pitch-and-run and gobble up a poorly hit shot.

Practice putting and short shots around the green.

Be sure you know which way the green rolls before you putt.

Don't let yourself be consistently short on putts or short shots to the green. Try to be past the pin as much of the time as you are short of it, and you'll find more shots are finding the hole. Never up, never in.

It requires some practice to relax deliberately, but it's absolutely necessary.

Good golf's easy if you take it easy.

Pitching. Bill Kennedy, White Sox — allowed only two hits in 5-13 relief innings of opening game 3-1 victory over St. Louis and only one hit in two frames in second game, 2-0, triumph.

Cleveland Cops Two From Tigers Feller To Face White Sox Tonight

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cleveland Indians, sporting a four-game winning string at the expense of the league's two weakest clubs, try tonight to wrest second place from the Chicago White Sox.

The Tribe handed last - place Detroit its worst thumping of the season there Friday 11-0 and 10-1. Early Wynn hurled a two-hit shutout in the opener, the sixth straight time he has beaten the Tigers since 1950. In the nightcap Bob Lemon held the Bengals to five hits, and catcher Joe Tipton clouted a grand slam homer.

Coupled with two extra - inning midweek triumphs over seventh-place St. Louis, the twin holiday win gave the Indians four in a row. If Bob Feller can cop his seventh victory tonight against seven defeats, the Tribe will equal its second longest 1952 winning string—five games that ended May 8. The longest chain of victories was seven at the season's outset.

Feller hasn't won a game since June 12, and has lost three. But he has pitched four good starts. Washington beat him 4-3 on nine hits in a game Cleveland left 12 runners stranded; Boston beat him 3-1 but got only four hits in seven innings; and Chicago, limited to five hits, beat him 5-1 last week, getting three unearned tallies. His other start was the 19-inning marathon with St. Louis when he gave five hits in nine frames and was removed for a pinch hitter with the score tied 2-2.

The White Sox come to town with a five - game winning string that enabled them to rise from fifth place and take a half - game hold on second in the past week. Joe Dobson, who has nine wins against four losses, is the hurler for tonight's "ladies night" contest.

Hine Motor Faces Meadville Tonight

The Hine Motor softball team of the Penn-Ohio League will encounter Meadville PNA in a league game tonight at Kelley Park.

The 8:30 contest will pit the Salem nine against the Meadville outfit who possesses a 5-4 record in league play. The locals hold a 3-8 mark.

Sunday evening the locals will journey to Youngstown to face the leaders of the loop, Youngstown General Fireproffing. The game is slated to be played at the G-F Field. The Youngstowners hold an 11-2 record for the season.

Yankees, Dodgers Lead Loops After July 4 Contests; Chisox Tribe, Yanks Capture Pairs

By RALPH RODEN Associated Press Sports Writer

If the Brooklyn Dodgers and New York Yankees clash in the 1952 World Series it will mark the fulfillment of an old baseball tradition for the first time in three years.

According to tradition National and American League teams holding first place after games of July 4th will win the pennant.

Both the Dodgers and Yanks lead their respective leagues today but they're not counting that yet. The Dodgers led the National League at this stage of the grind and Chicago showed the way in the American. Both teams missed the boat. In 1950 Detroit was out in front in the American and Philadelphia in the National after games on Independence Day. The Phils made it but the Tigers lost out.

Since 1900, 33 teams in each league that occupied first place on the morning of July 5th went on to win the pennant. The other 18 fell by the way side.

The year 1949 was the last time that the leaders in each league after games of July 4th went on to win the pennant. They were the current pace-setters, the Dodgers and Yanks.

Brooklyn celebrated Independence Day by turning back the runner-up New York Giants, 5-1, in the opener of a doubleheader. The game was called after eight innings because of rain and the second game was postponed. The triumph gained at the expense of Sal Maglie, an old nemesis, moved the Brooks three games ahead.

The Yanks safeguarded their 2 1/2-game edge by tripping Washington, 9-4 and 4-3 while the second place Chicago White Sox defeated the St. Louis Browns, 3-1 and 2-0, and the third place Cleveland Indians trounced Detroit, 11-0 and 10-1. The Boston Red Sox whacked Philadelphia, 10-5, but the A's bounced back to win the second game, 4-3.

Pittsburgh, the St. Louis Cardinals and the Boston Braves all won doubleheaders in the National League. The Pirates brushed back Cincinnati, 4-2 and 5-2, the Cards whipped Chicago, 13-7 and 4-1, to take over third place from the Cubs and the Braves downed the Philadelphia Phillies, 2-1 and 3-2.

Maglie, who boasted a string of eight straight victories over Brooklyn including three shutouts this season, lasted only two innings. He walked home a run in the first and was tagged for a two-run homer in the second by Pee Wee Reese. Relief ace Clem Labine blanked, the Giants on five hits after spelling Preacher Roe in the first inning. The victory was Labine's sixth. The largest National League crowd of the season, 49,433 fans turned out.

The Cardinals, victorious in 15 of their last 19 starts, creamed five Chicago pitchers for 16 hits including a grand slam homer by Hal Rice and a two-run blast by Dick Sisler in the opener at St. Louis. Gerry Staley shutout the Cubs after Gene Hermanski's first inning homer in the second game to run St. Louis' winning streak to six games.

Rookie shortstop Dick Groat clouted a two-run single in the ninth inning to beat the Reds in the first game at Cincinnati. Re-cruit Harry Fisher gained his first big league triumph for the Pirates in the second game. Fisher needed help from relief specialist Ted Wilks who locked up the decision.

Yearling Ed Mathews homered in the 11th inning to beat Karl Andrews and the Phils in the first of two at Boston. The blow was Mathews' 14th. Vern Bickford bested Ken Heintzelman, making his first start of the season, in the second game. Gran Hamner's error in the eighth inning permitted Sam Jethroe to score the winning run.

It took the Yanks nearly eight hours to take the Senators to the cleaners before 26,528 fans including President Truman. The opener was held up two hours and 14 minutes because of rain. The Yanks stashed this game away with three runs in the seventh inning.

The second game also was decided in the seventh inning, the Yanks scoring three runs following a hotly disputed play. Washington Manager Bucky Harris and catcher Mickey Grasso bitterly protested umpire Ed Hurley's ruling that a grounder by Yogi Berra was a fair ball. Senator first baseman Mickey Vernon, believing the ball was foul, didn't step on the base. Mickey Vernon, believing the ball was foul, didn't step on the base. Joe Collins scored from third on the play to tie the score at 2-2 and the Yanks shoved two more runs home to win. The fans aimed bottles and other missiles at Hurley. Grasso was tossed from the game and play was held up for five minutes.

Roving Reports By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—If you live in Oshkosh and have what you feel is a million-dollar idea for a new television show—well, forget it.

That is the advice of George Foley, one of the bright young producers in the industry.

"The odds are a million-to-one against an outsider putting across a fresh idea," he said. "That is one of the things wrong with the business—but it's a fact."

Then Foley, who at 33 has had an Horatio Alger-like rise (he grossed more than $1,000,000 last year as an independent producer), explained why:

"As a practical matter, if you live in Oshkosh and have a crack-jack idea, it would be all but impossible to sell it.

"Having an idea is one thing. Putting it in shape to sell—and then selling it—that is the real trick. It costs $15,000 to $50,000 to get a show ready to go on the air.

"You have to know how to clear your title to the show, find good writers to turn out a few sample scripts, hire artists to make sample set designs, and pay publicity, selling and administrative costs.

"All this is necessary to package your idea, or—as we say—put it into a format you can show to a possible sponsor.

"And 75 per cent of all TV shows are bought and sold within a 15-block radius of radio city here in New York. It's being able to open up the doors in that area that counts."

Even an experienced big-name producer has trouble selling an idea for a new type show, according to Foley, because there is "too much follow-the-leader thinking in the field, too much imitation."

"If you get a hit show, every other sponsor in the country decides he wants one as much like it as possible.

"But people get tired of too many shows with the same theme. You lose your audience, the show's rating drops, the sponsor feels he isn't getting his money's worth—everybody is sour."

What is the answer?

"We have to get more imagination into programming," said Foley, "and sell advertising sponsors on having more courage in backing new ideas. Actually, in the long run, there is no greater gamble involved—and the possible rewards are much greater."

Foley, a young lawyer with five children, went into television after leaving military service. In 15 months he sold $20 million in video programs for an advertising firm before going into business for himself.

He currently is producing short films, two radio shows, and "Tales of Tomorrow," a pioneering adult science-fiction TV program for the ABC network. He hopes the latter will start a trend away from crime shows, which he thinks the public is weary of.

As to that bright unknown fellow in Oshkosh—or anywhere else—who wants to crack television, Foley summed up:

"By all the rules and regulations, an outsider can't crash TV with only a single idea. But it's like Hollywood. Every once in a while a country girl gets on a train, goes out there—and becomes a star overnight.

"It can happen, but—how often?"

NOTICE!

This is to advise all of our customers and friends that we have been given a legal three days' notice to vacate the office rooms that we have occupied for the past sixteen years.

The new owner of the building and his adviser, think it best to rent these rooms to another business firm.

We will be in another location as soon as we find rooms suitable for our real estate business.

U.S. Liner Zips Along, May Clip Speed Record

ABOARD THE S. S. UNITED STATES, (AP)—The new American liner United States appeared on the way to a new trans-Atlantic speed record today after averaging 34.11 knots the first day of her maiden voyage to Europe.

Comdr. Harry Manning, the ship's master, reported yesterday that the super-liner covered 696 nautical miles in 20 hours, 24 minutes after leaving Ambrose Light, just outside New York Harbor.

This was 16 more nautical miles than the British liner Queen Mary sailed the first day of her record crossing in August, 1938. The Mary did the full trip in three days, 20 hours, 46 minutes, for an average speed of 31.69 knots.

The average speed racked up by the United States yesterday was equivalent to almost 40 miles an hour on land. A nautical mile is 1.19 statute miles.

MacArthur To Leave Monday For Chicago

NEW YORK (AP)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur will leave Idlewild Airport in a chartered United Airlines plane Monday to deliver the keynote address that night at the Republican National Convention in Chicago.

MacArthur's plane is due to leave at 2 p.m. (EST).

Bliss Press Pierces Steel Cartridge Cases

EAST LIVERPOOL — Frank K. Robinson, a water works clerk 36 years, was appointed acting superintendent today after the new three-member municipal utilities commission assumed management of the city water system here.

THE FACE OF WAR—One more patrol completed. One more safe return. Pvt. Heath Matthews, 19, of Montreal, Canada, who is with the Canadian Army unit in Korea, has just returned from a combat mission, tired, grimy, and shaken up. This trip, he's lucky. His only injury is a bloodied nose.

Radio And Television

NEW YORK (AP)—When the Republican convention sits in Chicago on Monday, eight networks, four of them television, will be carrying the sessions coast to coast. It will be the first time TV has had such an extensive hookup for such an event, its fourth. The first, in 1940, went only to Philadelphia and New York.

Air time for the opening session is 11:30 a. m. EST, with the 105 or so TV stations and the 1,250 or more radio stations broadcasting simultaneously without the usual radio repeat on local time.

All available networks commentators are on the scene, doing their regular programs from Chicago. Besides the convention sessions proper, other pre-scheduled programs are planned for Monday, among them: Television (EDT) — NBC-TV 10 a. m. pre-convention reports; CBS-TV 2:45 p. m. convention roundup . . . Radio-ABC 3:30 p. m. summary; ABC 5:15 p. m. Mary Margaret McBride.

Sunday many of the regular forums originate from the convention city, radio and TV-ABC-TV 4:30 and ABC 5:30 p. m. The hour Approaches; ABC and ABC-TV 11:15 Open House for Republicans . . . Radio-ABC 9 a. m. Dress rehearsal, repeat of Saturday program; ABC 2 p. m. Mary Margaret McBride and late developments; NBC 7:30 First Ballot, preview of voting; NBC 9:30 Origin of Republican party, documentary; MBS 9:30 interviews; CBS 10:05 Broadcast plans . . . Television-CBS-TV 3:30 Curtain Raiser; NBC-TV 3:30 The Man Who, documentary; CBS-TV 6 Final preparations; ABC-TV 6 Visiting Chicago; ABC-TV 9:30 Nights of Roundtable.

The forums

Radio-CBS 12 Noon People's Platform, "Convention Issues"

Radio and TV-10:30 p. m. American Forum, "Why We Should Win in '52." Sens. Dirksen and Douglas NBC-TV 10 Meet the Press with the TV expanded to an hour and delegates as studio guests, Harold Stassen, Gov. Warren, John Hamilton and Sen. James Duff

Gov. Warren To Refuse Vice Presidency Offer

DENVER (AP)—California's Gov. Earl Warren said last night, "I will refuse the vice presidential nomination if it is offered to me."

The Republican leader told a reporter he is interested only in the party's nomination for president. He repeated that he will release the California delegation with its 70 votes to vote "according to its own conscience" only when "I see I have no chance for the nomination."

Warren's special train stopped in Denver at 12:35 a.m., EST. It left 20 minutes later for Chicago.

Boy, 8, Loses Life In Firecracker Mishap

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—An 8-year-old boy was burned fatally and two automobiles were damaged by fire after the youngster stumbled into a pan of gasoline while lighting a July 4th firecracker.

The boy, James Matthews, suffered second and third degree burns over 70 per cent of his body.

Civil Rights Confuses GOP

Platform Plank Gives Party Big Headache

CHICAGO (AP) — Republican platform architects admitted unhappily today they have trouble with their plank on civil rights.

In recent years this convention headache has afflicted mostly the Democrats but now it's bothering the GOP as well.

Sen. Eugene D. Millikin of Colorado, chairman of the Platform Committee, told this reporter he now has rough drafts from 10 or 11 subcommittees, "all except civil rights."

"If we don't get one from the subcommittee then the full committee will have to write it," the Coloradoan added.

Millikin still tried to keep a tight cover on details of the 1952 platform but other committee sources provided this version:

All members on the civil rights subgroup agreed that the party should not urge a compulsory federal system of combating racial discrimination.

Some Republicans favor strict federal anti-poll tax, anti-lynch and anti-discrimination measures but neither Sen. Robert A. Taft nor Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower has gone this far. As front-running prospective presidential candidates it was felt their views should prevail.

As a compromise and a bid for Negro and other racial votes, some committeemen suggested a voluntary federal commission which could ban discrimination on government jobs and government contracts.

They also proposed that the voluntary commission be authorized to examine into racial conditions at state and local levels and make recommendations.

These latter proposals irked other subcommittees who insisted that if Republicans are to gain Southern votes the party platform should favor "hands off" at state and local levels.

Chairman Millikin asked all his subgroups to hand in their separate planks for polishing and analysis by staff technicians this forenoon.

He confidently hoped to avoid a bitter dispute on civil rights, such as split the Democratic National Convention into warring factions.

Most of the hotel room conferences still centered about the key foreign policy plank, with widespread speculation as to its contents.

IKE'S TEXAS BACKERS ARRIVE — Backers of Gen. Dwight Eisenhower arrive in Chicago, Ill., carrying the flag of Texas. Ike's Texas campaign chairman, H. Jack Porter, top, his wife and Ben Guill, right, leave the train as they plan to battle before the GOP national committee for contested convention seats. Their pro-Eisenhower slate will compete against the "regular" Texas slate which is backing Sen. Robert Taft.

Eisenhower Changes Tactics, Girds For Battle With Taft

ABOARD THE EISENHOWER SPECIAL (AP) — Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower arrives in Chicago at noon (EST) today — transformed almost overnight into a fighting-mad presidential candidate.

This was the "new Ike" to his lieutenants. He had decided to step down into the cockpit of politics to slug it out with Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio for the GOP presidential nomination.

He hadn't planned it that way. He had hoped to campaign on national policies and broad issues without getting involved in personalities. He had intended, by his own admission, to remain aloof from the bare knuckles bluffs of National Convention maneuvers.

But then came the change. He watched the GOP National Committee, dominated by Taft forces, toss out most of his disputed convention delegates in favor of Taft delegates. He got mad and began slugging.

Eisenhower charged yesterday there was evidence the Taft forces were trying to steamroller the convention and force their will on the people.

He charged "a little group of men" were trying to control the Republican party by throwing out majority rule.

He said the issue was "whether politicians are to be loyal servants or arrogant masters" of the voters who send delegates to the convention.

This change began before the general left Denver two days ago aboard a special train which has rolled across Colorado, Nebraska and Iowa. But with each whistle stop, the general's anger and bitterness over the Chicago developments have become more obvious.

Yesterday the general turned loose, at Denison, Ia., a blast against the Taft people when he said the Chicago nomination fight is "a struggle for honor, decency, and respect" in politics.

He charged his opposition was trying to conceal from the American people the reasons that led to "certain decisions" within the party and he lashed out at "Star Chamber" proceedings.

Later, at Boone, Ia.—the birthplace of Mrs. Eisenhower — the general unleashed a double-barreled assault against Taft and the Truman administration.

He said of the Taft camp: "Within the past few days there has been developing very definite evidence that a group of men are going to try to thwart the will of these citizens who elected delegates to the National Convention—they are going to try to take away the birthright of those citizens."

The Republican party, he said, has a chance to "lift off our backs the burden of indecisive leadership by .22 caliber men. We mustn't miff that chance."

Appealing for support from young voters, Eisenhower went on to say that if the people went to the polls "we will get rid of these people who have been in power too long."

Credentials Committee and to the convention floor itself.

This indicated it might be several days before the delegates would get around to voting on a nominee, with television cameras looking at the cast kept off the screens in yesterday's committee meeting.

The first big test in the convention battling will come on Lodge's proposal to bar any contested delegate from voting on any contest over a convention seat.

Rhee Says S. Korea

To Hold Election Soon

PUSAN, Korea, (AP) — President Syngman Rhee said today a presidential election will be held as soon as possible and added he does "not wish to run and I want the people to understand this."

Government officials, however, expressed belief that the 77-year-old President would accept reelection.

The National Assembly last night by overwhelming vote approved a compromise constitutional amendment providing for direct popular election of the President, a two-house Congress and some Assembly influence over the Cabinet.

The action ended a six-week political crisis brought on by Rhee demanding the Assembly give up its right to elect the President. The amendment was passed at a marathon two-day and two-night session.

Ana Pauker Reported Ousted In Romania

BERLIN (AP)—Ana Pauker has been fired from her job as foreign minister of Romania, the Soviet-licensed news agency ADN reported today from Bucharest.

The news agency said Simion Buchich has been appointed to take the place of the one-time darling of international communism who was purged in May from the Romanian Communist party's high command.

The ADN report said Mrs. Pauker, the hefty, 59-year-old daughter of a rabbi, was fired "by decree of the great National Assembly of the People's Republic of Romania."

GOP Will Decide On Farm Subsidy

CHICAGO (AP) — Republican platform drafters appeared ready today to stake their party's chances in farm states in the November election on the belief that farmer votes can't be "bought" with promises of bigger "federal handouts."

A subcommittee laid before the party's Resolutions Committee today a farm plank that refused to match a promise of the Truman administration to give farmers higher average price supports than they might get under present farm law.

Instead, it chose to try to convince farmers that the Truman supports would, in the long run, be bad for agriculture because they would encourage production of surpluses which in turn would lead to federal restrictions on how much farmers could grow and sell.

Both President Truman and Secretary of Agriculture Charles A. Brannan have advocated mandatory price supports at 90 per cent of parity for major crops. They would replace present supports which range between 75 and 90 per cent of parity.

Parity is a standard for measuring farm prices, declared by law to be equally fair to farmers and those with who buy their products.

Three Mishaps Occur In Heavy City Traffic

Despite the heavy volume of traffic moving through Salem at the start of the holiday weekend, only three minor traffic accidents occurred in the city, police reported.

Theodore Schaefer of Trenton, N. J., reported to police that as he was stopped in a line of traffic on W. State St. at 5:35 p.m. Friday, his car was struck in the rear by an auto driven by Mrs. Glenn Arnold of 828 Franklin Ave., causing some damage to each car.

A car driven by Winston Ingram of RD 4, Salem, backed into and slightly damaged a car operated by Walter DeJane of 542 E. School St. as DeJane was stopped on Fourth St. waiting to pull onto N. Ellsworth Ave.

James E. Knag of Damascus told police that as he was driving north on N. Lincoln Ave. and attempting to turn left on E. Second St. at 10 p.m. Thursday, his car jumped the curb and struck a tree, causing considerable damage to the right front part of his auto.

Congress

by Sen. Williams (R-Del.), who said that "it's not right for Congress to adjourn sine die with the Korean War and the steel strike on."

Republicans were not unmindful either of how President Truman in 1948 called the GOP-controlled Congress into a special session after his nomination at the Democratic National Convention and went on to campaign against what he called its "do-nothing" record.

But Senate Democratic Leader McFarland of Arizona said he saw no reason why a final adjournment should not be taken. House leaders were in agreement, he added.

At a rate Fourth of July session yesterday, Congress passed bills left and right. In many cases no copies of the measures or committee explanations of them were available to the lawmakers.

The confusion was so great that members protested vigorously. Sen. McCarran (D-Nev.) said that in his 20 years in Congress "this is the most disorderly way to enact legislation that I've witnessed."

Among the measures sped to the White House was a new GI Bill of Rights for Korean War veterans. It provides education, muster-out and loan benefits that would cost about one billion dollars a year.

Also sent to the President was a compromise measure designed to bring about a $1,395,000,000 expansion of the defense housing program.

A compromise $46,600,000 military spending bill was passed by the House and now goes before the Senate for action. It contains the full amount asked by the President to expand the Air Force to 143 wings by mid-1955.

The huge money bill, the largest of all the appropriations measures for the 1953 fiscal year that started Tuesday, also provides extra pay of $45 a month for all members of the armed services who have been in actual combat in Korea.

The House whipped through and left final action to the Senate on a $1,015,000,000 bill to finance the State, Justice and Commerce Departments.
